

Grand Rapids Pair Reunited By Cafe Juke Box 'Because'

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 22 (AP)—A physician and his wife gave prayerful thanks today for their reunion, credited to a cafe juke box's playing of "Because."

Like the love song, their story was a pensive one.

Home after an absence of 19 months, Dr. William Aston, 34, amnesia victim, told of regaining his memory upon hearing the song.

In March of 1947 he had left for the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn. Since his departure he had not been seen by friends nor could he account for what happened.

His wife, Patricia, 28, mother of two children, meanwhile returned to her old hospital job as a nurse, hopeful her husband would return some day.

Dr. Aston heard the juke box play "Because" in a Chicago restaurant Monday night. The song was played at their wedding in 1940 just before both entered the army.

"All I know is that Bill is home and that everything is fine again," Mrs. Aston said. "I thank God for that."

Ten War Criminals Hanged In Germany

Appeals Fail To Save
Dachau Murderers

Munich, Germany, Oct. 22 (AP)—Ten German war criminals were hanged today at Landsberg prison, despite recent appeals of German Catholic and Protestant church leaders that further executions be halted.

Alex Piorowski, 44, one-time commander of the Dachau concentration camp, and former S. S. Col. Hans Trummer, 48, who passed out cigars to his troops after they killed parachuted aviators, were the best known of the ten.

The men went to the gallows in the courtyard of the prison where Hitler wrote "Mein Kampf." All were convicted by American courts of shooting unarmed American fliers or torturing and killing concentration camp inmates.

The plea for suspension of the executions of 139 war criminals under death sentence was made by churchmen after 10 other Germans had been hanged at Landsberg last Friday for similar crimes.

The church leaders asked that the hangings be halted until further investigation showed whether conviction of those involved had been properly obtained.

The 10 executions were completed in about an hour and a half.

Korea Stamps Out Two-Day Rebellion

Seoul, Oct. 22 (AP)—The Korean Republic today appeared to be stamping out a two-day rebellion, and its president said the Korean people have the protection of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The U. S. army said it had been advised heavily armed Korean troops almost unopposed had pushed into the southern part of Yosu, the first of two cities seized by Communist-led rebels Wednesday.

A high official source predicted early recapture of the second city, Suchon, 20 miles northwest of Yosu. Three loyal battalions were said to be fighting encircled rebels there. Korean regulars opened a mortar and machinegun attack. On other rebel bands in Korea's southern mountains.

POTATO KING AND FAMILY — If there were a "royal family" among Michigan potato growers it would be that of Frank Falkies, 24-year-old Baldwin township farmer. Last year Frank had a yield of 794.9 bushels an acre to win the title of Michigan "potato king"; last night at the Delta county Potato Show at Cornell it was announced that his 1948 yield was 847.2 bushels an acre. Pictured are Mr. and Mrs. Falkies and their son, John.

Dewey Strategists Think Race Is Won

Campaign Wound Up For Republican Nominee

BY JACK BELL
New York, Oct. 22 (AP)—Four big-city speeches and an election broadcast will wind up Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's campaign for the presidency.

The Republican nominee elected today to close his drive with nationally broadcast talks in Chicago, Cleveland, Boston and New York.

Between them, in the final 10 days of the campaign, he arranged to sandwich in some barnstorming talks in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

But missing from the list was any appearance in West Virginia, where Senator Chapman Revercomb, Republican, is struggling for re-election in a highly critical senate race.

And the Dewey strategists, who summed up their ideas about the campaign in a four-hour conference here yesterday, turned down demands for the candidate's appearance in Detroit.

The consensus was that Dewey has the presidential race won, and should not extend himself in the last few days of the campaign.

Suit For $100,000 Filed In Accident Fatal To Trucker

Detroit, Oct. 22 (AP)—A suit seeking $100,000 was filed in federal court here yesterday by Mrs. Esther N. Kopley, of Garden City, Mich., whose husband was killed in a highway accident last November.

She named General Motors Corp. and the La Salle Steel Corp. of Gary, Ind., as defendants.

Mrs. Kopley charged careless loading of her husband's steel trailer caused his death. Her suit maintains that her husband, Wilber, died when his cargo of steel shifted and caused his truck to go off a highway near Grand Rapids.

He was enroute from Gary to a GM plant in Saginaw.

Young Woman Held On Murder Charge; Coffee Poisoned

Great Falls, Mont., Oct. 22 (AP)—First degree murder charge has been filed against a 19-year-old woman in the coffee shop poisoning of her fiancé.

County Attorney Truman G. Bradford filed the charge yesterday. He said Mrs. Dannie Sue Huggert told him she gave 19-year-old Cpl. Robert M. Burt the poison so he would be hospitalized for illness instead of being put in the Great Falls air base guard-house for drinking.

Falkies Hits 847 Bushels Per Acre, New Spud Record

Frank Falkies, 24-year-old Baldwin township farmer today was hailed as 1948 Delta county "potato king", with members of the Potato Booster association jubilant over the prospect that Falkies' yield of 847.2 bushels an acre would set a new Michigan record.

Last year Falkies won the state championship with a yield of 794.9 bushels an acre.

Mediators Try To Avert
Strike At Hospital

Detroit, Oct. 22 (AP)—An adjustment of differences was sought today in labor disputes that idled 14,000 rubber and auto workers.

In the meantime state mediators tried to steer off a strike threat at Harper hospital, one of Detroit's largest, and Gov. Kim Sigler's fact-finding panel scheduled hearings in the telephone wage fight.

The CIO United Rubber Workers ordered 500 strikers at the U. S. Rubber Co. to return to work, pending negotiation of a piece-work dispute. Their strike yesterday idled 6,000 men.

Chrysler Corp. headed back to normal production after a Dodge main plant layoff of 8,000 men which the company attributed to one man's rush for the time clock.

The layoff was ordered, the company said, when 24 trim workers quit yesterday in protest of discipline for the man and it was necessary to halt final car assemblies.

A second 8,000 employees worked their late day shift, however.

The disciplined man was given a day's layoff. The company said he violated rules by starting a rush for the time-clock. In the past workers have been hurt in time-clock stampedes, management said.

Baby Boy Swallows Bottle Of Perfume, Gets Case Of Hives

Pittsburgh, Oct. 22 (AP)—Hospital attendants said today that a 16-month old boy who swallowed $18 worth of perfume might be the sweetest baby in town for a while but would probably pay for it with a case of hives.

Harry Kane, son of John J. Kane, Jr., Democratic congressional candidate, swallowed the contents of the bottle he found in a dresser drawer. He was taken to a hospital for examination.

Cease Fire Order Sent Into Desert

Egyptian Front Weakened
By Fall Of Beersheba

Tel Aviv, Israel, Oct. 22 (AP)—Israel ordered her troops to cease fighting in the Negev desert at 3 p. m. today (7 a. m., EST), the government announced.

(The Egyptian government announced in Cairo it has informed the U. N. mediator, Dr. Ralph Bunche, that it has ordered Egyptian troops to stop fighting in Palestine in accordance with the U. N. order.)

The announcement came almost simultaneously with the fall of Beersheba, the capital's first daylight alert in three months. Anti-aircraft fire could be heard, but no planes were visible.

Israelis Victorious
The cease fire order met the deadline set by the acting United Nations mediator.

Egyptian artillery pounded Israeli-held roads in southern Palestine this morning apparently in a last-minute blow before the cease fire was to take effect, the Jewish army said.

The cease fire order was handed the government of Israel at 1 a. m., 14 hours before the deadline, U. N. officials said. Israel had asked a 12-hour margin after receipt of the message, to allow time for issuance of orders to advance positions to stop shooting.

The Israelis, flushed with their reported capture of Beersheba, cradle of the modern Arab world, had informed acting United Nations mediator Ralph Bunche they would quit fighting when assured the Egyptians would do so.

Bethlehem Totters
Fall of Beersheba undermined the positions of the Egyptians, who invaded Palestine five months ago. The Egyptian front appeared in danger of crumbling into isolated pockets of resistance against a Jewish offensive. The Jewish victory also threatened the Egyptian front south of Jerusalem and aimed a threat at Gaza, capital of the Arab-proclaimed Palestine.

New Deal Menaced By GOP, Says Harry

Actress Lambasts Dewey
For Being Too Tidy

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—President Truman said last night the Republicans plan to put the axe to the New Deal "program for going forward."

"The time has come," he said in a radio talk, "for the working people and all the progressive forces of this nation to realize the grave danger that confronts them."

"Only from the Democratic party," Mr. Truman said, can the people expect social legislation such as that contained in the New Deal's "great progressive body of laws."

The President spoke from the White House on a nationwide broadcast sponsored by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. He was introduced by actress Tallulah Bankhead from New York.

Miss Bankhead, daughter of the late House Speaker William B. Bankhead, said she preferred Mr. Truman, "the human being," to "Thomas E. Dewey, the mechanical man."

Terming the Republican presidential candidate "so execrably tiny," she said:

"Just once I'd like to see him with his hair rumpled, a gray stain on his vest, that synthetic smile wiped off his face."

"It seems a great shame to risk exposing Mr. Dewey to the smells and noises and ills of humanity," Miss Bankhead added, "far better to leave him in his cellophane wrapper, unsoiled by contact with the likes of you and me."

Pet Guards Corpse Of Lansing Recluse

Lansing, Oct. 22 (AP)—A small mongrel dog kept sheriff's deputies at bay here last night when they discovered the body of James W. Schultz, 74, a widower who lived alone with his faithful pet.

The deputies investigated after neighbors reported that Schultz had not been seen for several days. They found the elderly recluse slumped in a rocking chair with a guitar he had been playing still gripped in his fingers. The dog was on guard at his master's feet and had to be restrained before the body could be removed.

Coroner W. Ray Gorsline said Schultz died of a heart attack.

Texas Man, Veteran Of 2 Wars Named Legion Commander

Miami, Fla., Oct. 22 (AP)—S. Perry Brown, the American Legion's newly-elected national commander, and about 70,000 other Legionnaires were on their way home today.

They wrapped up the 30th annual national convention late yesterday with unanimous approval of Brown for the Legion's highest office.

When the 56-year-old Beaumont, Tex., business man's election became apparent midway the balloting, one opponent, George N. Craig of Brazil, Ind., yielded. As balloting ended, the third man in the race—James F. Green, 33, Omaha, Neb.—moved to make it unanimous.

Brown is a veteran of both World Wars.

The national executive committee will meet in Indianapolis next month to choose a site for next year's convention. Only Philadelphia and Miami extended invitations. Boston put in a bid for the 1950 meeting.

Two resolutions approved by the Legionnaires asked pensions for all honorably discharged veterans of World War I or World War II.

General Chiang May Abandon Manchuria

Hard Decision Faced By President Of China

PEIPING, Oct. 22 (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek is trying to head off disaster for his armies of North China and Manchuria—and this may call for the hard decision to abandon Manchuria.

Chiang time and time again has said Manchuria will be defended to the death.

If he changes his mind it will mean for him a heart-breaking people and all the progressive forces of this nation to realize the grave danger that confronts them.

Here in brief is what events of the past week have brought him face to face with:

The Communists are top dog in Manchuria and very much so; Inner Mongolia is threatened; Taiyuan, capital of the north province of Shanxi is hard pressed, possibly doomed; in North China the danger increases.

Reports are current here that Chiang has decided to abandon Manchuria and bring all his troops there south of the great wall. These reports may or may not be well founded.

But the belief is strong in Peiping that the government's current fighting in the Manchurian corridor to North China is designed more to blast a way out than to blast a way in.

Girl, 18, Gets Life As Hammer Slayer

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 22 (AP)—Eighteen-year-old Pearl Silverman was sentenced to life imprisonment today for the brutal hammer slaying of her 10-year-old brother, Albert, who she said "got more attention" than she.

The dark-haired defendant—described by both prosecution and defense as psychotic—pleaded no defense to a murder indictment last month. She showed no emotion as she was sentenced to the N. J. reformatory for women.

Sex Arouser Kills Ohio Girl; Youth Guilty Of Murder

Medina, O., Oct. 22 (AP)—A three-judge court last night declared Clark Hill, 19, guilty of first degree murder by poison in the death of Jeanette Weimer, pretty car hop of Mogadore, O.

The court recommended mercy in deciding Hill was guilty of causing the 17-year-old girl's death last April 9 by slipping a heavy dose of a sex stimulant into her drink.

The mercy recommendation makes a life sentence mandatory.

Hanging Game Fatal To Port Huron Boy

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 22 (AP)—A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday for 10-year-old Larry Wayne Winistrot, victim of a game of make-believe hangman.

Coroner Arthur Smith said the youngster had placed a rope around his neck while playing in his bedroom and it apparently became entangled in his clothing.

Neutrals Call On Russia To Lift Blockade

By Louis Nevin

Paris, Oct. 22 (AP)—Six nations on the Security Council asked Russia today to lift the Berlin blockade at once.

The western powers, who accused Russia of endangering peace, were asked to lift their counter blockade of the Soviet zone, to agree by Nov. 20 that the Russian-sponsored mark be the sole currency for Berlin and to meet with Russia in a foreign ministers' council Nov. 30 to thrash out the whole problem of Germany.

Neither the west nor the east accepted immediately. The meeting was recessed until Monday at 3 p. m. (9 a. m. EST) by which time replies may be forthcoming from Moscow, Washington, London and the French.

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky sat silently through the session as the neutral powers by turn urged acceptance of their compromise in interests of world happiness. Drafters of the resolution were Argentina, China, Canada, Colombia, Belgium and Syria. Foreign Minister Juan A. Bramuglia of Argentina, acting council president, agreed the Big Four powers needed more time to consider the grave issue and the resolution.

Dr. Philip C. Jessup, who made the U. S. charges against Russia at an earlier session, said that "in general we think it (the resolution) is along the right line." He said he could not say what the U. S. stand would be.

The meeting was delayed nearly an hour by last minute conferences among the Big Four delegations directly concerned in the issue. The United States, Britain and France have accused Russia of endangering peace by blocking Berlin.

Russia has asserted no blockade exists and that the council has no jurisdiction. The neutral powers—Argentina, Belgium, Canada, China, Colombia and Syria—drafted a compromise solution which the western powers accepted.

Hour For Harmony
The neutrals put before the council a joint resolution which said the four military governors

'Voice Of America' Penetrates Russia

News Picked Up Despite Soviet 'Jamming'

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—Russia's reported all-out effort to smother "voice of America" radio broadcasts may be boomeranging.

American listening posts have picked up a total of 18 Soviet stations, mostly centered around Moscow and Vladivostok, which state department officials say are used to "jam" the voice programs.

These officials add, however, that they have reason to believe the jamming never succeeds entirely and that the reaction of Russian listeners therefore is one of intensified interest; they want to find out what information it is their government seeks to deny them.

The United States is not trying to retaliate by jamming Soviet broadcasts to this country, the authorities say, but is making a special effort in its broadcast to Russia to tell Russian people all the news their government may not be giving to them.

There is evidence that this news is getting through, officials say, citing the Kasenkina case as an example.

When Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina jumped out of the window of the Soviet consulate in New York several weeks ago, the "voice" picked up news reports of the incident and began broadcasting them to the Soviet union within a matter of minutes.

Observers in Moscow reported later that within three hours, news of what the refugee Russian school teacher had done was widely known over the Soviet capital.

Chicago to Repeat Big Railroad Fair

Chicago, Oct. 22 (AP)—The Chicago railroad fair, which attracted more than 2,500,000 persons in a 76-day run last summer, will be repeated in 1949 "as a still greater exposition," Major Lenox Lohr, president of the fair, said today.

The fair, sponsored by 38 of the nation's railroads, was held from July 20 to Oct. 3 to celebrate a century of railroad progress.

Council Abides By City Ordinance In Reply To Luick Milk Application

In response to a request by the Luick Dairy company of Milwaukee that it be permitted to guarantee access by health department representatives to all its producers rather than procure a signed statement from each, the city council last night abided strictly by its milk ordinance requiring distributors of milk in Escanaba to show a signed statement from each producer.

The question arose from an application by Charles Reinke, of Marinette and Menominee, for permission to distribute Luick products in Escanaba. It came up about a year ago when an Escanaba party sought a permit to distribute Luick products here.

Stating that Luick procures milk from 600 to 700 producers spread over seven counties and that it would be difficult to get a signed statement from each, H. F. DePew, of Milwaukee, Luick production manager, said "we can attain the same end by guaranteeing access of health department representatives to any producer." He also had a list of all Luick producers and explained their health standards.

Cow Is Producer
Mayor Robert LeMire, however said that such practice would not be in keeping with the present city milk ordinance and that the council could not circumvent its ordinance.

In the discussion that followed, City Attorney Dennis McGinn defined the producer as the farmer and not the Luick company, although it was granted by Reinke that the cow could, and probably should, be termed the actual producer.

Replying in equal good humor, Attorney McGinn, in effect, that was true but you can't get a statement from a cow.

The council tabled for further negotiation a request for an additional expenditure of from $700 to $900 for a Ranney water test at a new location. The opinion was expressed by Councilman Nevin Reynolds that the original cost of $5,500 covered the entire test regardless of any change in location.

Other Council Action
It was the consensus of the council, however, that the matter should not be dropped but that further negotiation with the firm should be made in an effort to reach a decision satisfactory to both parties. Mayor LeMire contended the Ranney firm should bear the expense of the additional test, inasmuch as it has a "product to sell to the city."

Other council actions last night were:
Authorized the city manager to advertise 25 acres of ground one mile west of Breezy Point (city gravel pit) for public sale with the right to reject any bid.
Established following election employee pay: five men at $10 each to serve from the opening of polls until 8 p. m.; two of them to serve until counting complete for an additional $5 each and two new clerks to assist with the counting at a cost of $8 each. City clerk also was authorized to hire additional help where needed on election night.

Accepted letter of appreciation from Nationwide Airlines, Inc., thanking the city for adopting a resolution supporting the company's request for an air mail contract.

Accepted a bid of $350 from Lloyd Hendrickson, 219 South 18th street, Escanaba for purchasing the house at 905 First avenue North providing that it be removed or torn down within 30 days.

Adopted a resolution releasing claim to the state conservation department of lot 4, block 26, in the Cady Land company's third addition.

Legal Rights Of Noise

So much has been said and written about the legal rights of persons or groups using sound trucks since the Supreme Court issued its decision in the Lockport, N. Y., case last summer that many people have reached the conclusion that the tribunal created impenetrable barriers against the control of these devices.

Actually all that the high court did in its famous 5-4 decision was to prohibit the arbitrary use of the licensing power for control of sound trucks. The majority opinion emphasized the fact that the control of the nuisance itself is not beyond the authority of municipalities.

Campaigners for the Progressive Party have challenged the noise control ordinance of New Brunswick, N. J., except in this instance the challenge is directed at the power of police to abate the nuisance and it is not directed at the power to require licensing in advance. There is no reason to believe from the tone of the supreme court decision that this challenge would be sustained by the high court.

The point of this discourse is that Escanaba need not abandon its efforts to control noise from sound trucks or wedding parties merely because of the decision already rendered by the court in the Lockport case. The Escanaba ordinance as now drawn is obviously unconstitutional because it provides for the discretionary licensing privilege that the court has held to be invalid. It can be made legally sound, however, by a more carefully drawn statute that does not contain authority for the city manager, chief of police or any other individual to issue or refuse to issue licenses as he may see fit.

The Cost Of Government

In various campaign speeches, Governor Dewey has dwelt on the need for rigorous economy in government. And that, whatever one's political affiliation, is absolutely essential to the survival of an economic system which has done more for more people than any other—and which is based on individual incentive, enterprise and ambition.

No one can deny that the American people, through their government, have accepted enormous financial commitments for foreign aid, the national defense, and other unavoidable projects. And the very size and burden of these commitments is all the more reason for cutting every possible nickel from the domestic Federal budget, and for pruning duplicating bureaus to the limit.

We must have a government which will recognize that there is a limit to "social security," and that the people must stop looking to government for benefits they should provide through their own work and thrift and foresight. Finally, we must have a national policy that recognizes that ruthless taxation, long enough continued, will stop our development as a nation, destroy the roots of progress, and court actual bankruptcy.

An affirmation of these principles by the next President and Congress, regardless of the political party in power, is necessary to the preservation of this nation.

Fewer Buyers Now

J. H. Sparkman of Seattle, Wash., international president of the Society of Residential Appraisers, declared in an interview in Milwaukee this week that prices of new homes are not slumping and predicted that there will be no slump in the immediate future, despite difficulties that builders are having in selling houses already built.

Perhaps Mr. Sparkman's appraisal of the situation is accurate but if so, it is entirely contrary to the economic rule of supply and demand. Sparkman said, for instance that there are 5,000 homes in Detroit alone that have been completed but remain empty because of a lack of buyers. Difficulty in obtaining money for down payment is responsible for this condition, he added.

Builders have refused to cut their prices in the belief that the market will remain active. Despite Sparkman's contention that prices are not slumping, the surveys made in recent weeks indicate that the cream has already been drawn off the house market and that prices are bound to drop unless more liberal financing becomes available to prospective buyers. Even now builders are paying brokers commissions to get their houses sold, which is in itself a new trend in the housing market. It wasn't too long ago that dozens of buyers stepped forward even while the basement was being dug.

Atomic Control Unlikely

THE United Nations has turned the atomic energy dispute over to the Big Five and Canada to determine whether it will be possible to work out a program of international control based upon the American long range plan.

The consistent Soviet opposition indicates little hope that an agreement can be reached. The Russians have demanded that the atomic bomb be outlawed before any discussions develop on plans for international control. Also the Russians have consistently opposed the proposal for rigid international inspection of atomic plants and for the establishment of penalties for violations.

The control of atomic energy is a problem that can not be solved by compromise. The position of the United States is inflexible. We have insisted that international control must be absolute or not at all. The nations of the world must relinquish their prerogatives of sovereignty to the degree that UN inspectors are unimpeded in their examination of the sources of atomic energy materials and in their inspection of atomic energy plants.

Anything less than that is no international control at all and simply invites clandestine production of atomic explosives that would jeopardize the peace of the world.

We have offered to pool our vast knowledge of atomic energy with the other nations of the world for the good of mankind but only under conditions that guarantee absolute international control. Then and only then can the atomic bomb and other atomic explosives safely be outlawed. Russia's refusal to withdraw the iron curtain makes any proposal for effective control of atomic energy an impossibility.

THE WEST COMES EAST (Grand Rapids Press)

Doubtless many a hard-bitten westerner will learn with regret that Yale university has acquired the William Robertson Coe collection of Western Americana, one of the most extensive and complete in the country. The average resident of the Rocky mountain country and beyond takes a fierce pride in everything connected with his part of the nation's history. Keeping some of the west's most cherished documents in New Haven may seem akin to shipping them off to a foreign country.

But few westerners realize, perhaps, that the east continues to reveal a lively interest in early western lore. East of the Mississippi any metropolitan bookstore handling second-hand volumes is almost certain to have a fairly large stock of western Americana. And one of the best of today's authorities on the early west—Bernard DeVoto—lives in Cambridge, Mass.

If anything, placing the Coe collection in Connecticut could encourage the east's interest in and understanding the west. And that ought to please any westerner. As for the scholars, they should have a field day delving into the almost 8,000 items that make up the collection. There will be found the original records of Astor's fur-trading operations in the Columbia river country; the accounts of the great Mormon migration of 1846 and the explorations of Custer, Pike and Long, as well as other important documents telling of the opening of the west. But that story doesn't belong to the westerner or scholar alone; its heroic pages are the heritage of every American.

YOUR PRECIOUS RIGHT (Iron Mountain News)

In America we vote if we want to and we stay home if we want to. In America, if we go to the polls, we vote as we please. Apparently, judging from the primary vote last month, a good many Dickinson county residents hold this privilege cheaply.

It is easier to find excuses for this failure to register than to justify it. The ballot is your voice in government. Except for your unhampered right of free discussion among your friends, and an occasional letter to the newspapers or your congressman, it is probably the one action you will take from year to year to make known your views and to effectuate your opinion. If you were deprived of this right by force you would be willing to go to war to recover it. Yet, by failing to register, you are equally depriving yourself, through indolent default.

Registration is now in progress with city and township clerks. You cannot vote in November if you do not register. You fail as a good citizen if you and your neighbors do not share in this basic responsibility of government.

Take My Word For It

WHAT'S THE ORIGIN?

Q. Will you please give us the origin of the word bugle?—Sgt. H. D.

A. The word bugle has its origin in the Latin word buculus, "a young bullock." When bugle entered English from the French, it meant "a wild ox." The simple wind instrument made from the horn of an ox was called a bugle-horn. Later, the "horn" was dropped, and bugle came to have its present meaning, losing altogether its "wild ox" meaning.

It is worthy of note that the brass wind instruments of the orchestra—the trumpets, the cornets, the trombones, the tubas, etc.—are still spoken of as horns, for the reason that they have descended from the ancient instruments (bugles) made of animal horns.

The word trumpet is from the French trompe, "the snout or proboscis of an animal." The diminutive is trompette.

The trumpets blown by Joshua's priests at the battle of Jericho were rams' horns, as were the trumpets of Gideon's band of 300 (Judges, Chapter 7). When Saul's 3,000 men of Israel conquered the garrison of the Philistines (1 Sam., Chapter 13), "Saul blew the trumpet throughout all the land, saying let the Hebrews hear."

A cornet is a kind of trumpet. Cornet is from the French word corne, which means, "the horn of a cow or ram." Trombone is Italian, from tromba, "trumpet." Tuba is Latin for war-trumpet of the Romans, used

Bad Situation In Greece

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington.—If it were not so tragic in relation to the contest between Communism and the west, there would be something almost comic about what is happening in Greece today. It is Graustarkian comedy with the shadows of disaster in the immediate background.

Poor harassed, overworked, weary Secretary of State Marshall has had to go to Athens at this critical moment to try to make some sense out of the Greek riddle. And there is no sense in it, since what we are seeing is the compounding of the errors of the past.

When President Truman first sounded the Greek fire alarm, he announced to the world and to the little ruling clique in Athens that a Greece free of Communist dictatorship was essential to the United States. That was true. But in the way in which he proclaimed the alarm, the president, in effect, helped to give a permanent lease on control to the narrow, reactionary Athens clique.

Their interest is not in ending guerrilla resistance. To end it would end the flow of American aid and American dollars. So one month we get glowing communiques from the front that tell of heroic victories by the Greek armies. And the next month the press association dispatches suggest that stalemate and even mutiny are just around the corner unless more American aid is forthcoming at once.

When I was in Greece a year ago, it seemed to be that Dwight Griswold, the aid administrator who retired recently, was trying to do a necessary job of persuading the Greeks to broaden and expand their government. The objective was to get more confidence from the Greek people and thereby cut down the support and sympathy for the rebels.

He succeeded, over the opposition of the state department and the then ambassador, in bringing the liberal leader, Themistocles Sophoulis in as prime minister. That was the limit of Griswold's success and the aged Sophoulis has been to a large degree a captive of the Athens clique represented by the Populist party.

The state department has from the beginning seen nothing but the Populists and the royal family. Both in the department here and in the embassy in Athens they have clung to outward forms and the dead letter of the past.

They have regarded criticism as a form of treason and have pettishly suggested that any newspapermen who did not go along with state department policy were themselves Communists. This attitude conveniently ignores the deep discontent of the Greek people who are certainly not Communists except in a small minority. But they are deeply democratic at heart and they want a government to which they can give some allegiance.

Unfortunately for the state department attitude, the ship owners, the bankers and industrialists who back the Athens clique have shown little inclination to play the game. With few exceptions, their capital is still safely tucked away in New York banks. They are uneasy refugees in their own land, ready to flee to safety at a moment's warning and unwilling to make even the slightest sacrifice.

No one denies that the task of subduing the guerrillas is enormously difficult. From Greece's Communist neighbors, Albania, Yugoslavia, and Bulgaria, aid comes across the border to re-enforce the guerrilla bands when they are hard pressed.

But the aid these primitive countries can furnish must surely be small and elementary in comparison to the military help that the U. S. has furnished the Greek army. This includes planes and other fighting equipment. While aid of this sort might come from Soviet Russia by way of Albania, there has never been any evidence to show that the guerrillas were being given modern material in quantity. They have relied on guerrilla tactics and the ability to retreat into mountain fastnesses.

The latest press association reports suggest demoralization in the Greek army. An anonymous American officer attached to the Greek forces is quoted as saying that the Greek soldier seems to feel he has nothing to fight for. A large-scale offensive is mounted and then nothing happens.

At this strategic moment, when more aid is sought, the government in Athens announces a "solution" of the George Polk murder, an announcement which should be taken with decided reservation. There may still be time for a new approach to the Greek tragedy, although it is already very late.

for giving military signals.

Thus we see that all the horns, from the smallest, the bugle, to the largest, the tuba, are literally trumpets.

Q. Why do we say, "we're at loggerheads" in describing a quarrel or serious disagreement?—M. S.

A. Originally loggerhead was the name of a long iron tool used in melting pitch aboard ship. In the hand-to-hand fighting of boarding operations, or in gang fights among the crew, casualties were many and severe when the men laid about them with loggerheads. It was an especially deadly weapon in close combat.

"Not room to swing a cat" refers to the dread cat-o'-nine-tails, once used in the legal punishment of seamen by lashing their bare backs.

The correct use of shall-will, should-would is made easy by Mr. Colby's non-technical key. A valuable reference for teachers, students, and all writers. "Look, No Hands!"

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

INITIALS—When the side-wheeler Menasha, formerly owned by the U. S. Engineers Department, was on her way from Kaukauna, Wis., to her new home port of Escanaba, Walter Hanson of Escanaba was "chief engineer." Coming out on deck for a breath of air, Walter pointed to the ring buoy on the Menasha's rail and advised the boat's owners, B. J. Gallagher and Paul Richter, that if they ever wanted to dispose of the Menasha at a profit they would have to paint out the lettering on the ring buoy.

For there in large letters were the initials USED.

And some friends of ours tell us their young son was being put through a quiz at home on the capitals of states. Amazed at his ignorance they demanded: "Well, what's the capital of the United States?" He didn't know. "Washington, D. C.," they said, and then they asked what D. C. meant. He smiled triumphantly. "Washington, da capital."

TOO CLEAN—Carl Lang of the Escanaba Western Union office had the picture window of his cottage on Ford River shattered the other day. The window faces the river, and when Carl came home he found the window broken as if a football had been kicked through it.

The cause was evident. On the floor lay a dead partridge. Around it was strewn bittersweet berries.

"The bird must have been across the river feeding on bittersweet berries, which are plentiful there," Carl explained. "Upon returning it mistook the shiny window, reflecting the surrounding woods, for clear air and flew into it. The glass broke its neck and cut open the crop."

From his experience, Carl's conclusion is that his picture window was washed too clean and shiny. His advice: Leave them a little dirty so the partridge will not bang into them.

CONFUSION—It will be two years until 1950 and the next official population census. Meanwhile Delta county, and many other counties and communities in the state, are wondering whether they are gaining or losing.

A recent population estimate issued by the bureau of records and statistics, Michigan Department of Health, only adds to the confusion, at least in Delta county. Here is the way the various figures fail to assist the seeker after facts:

1940 federal census gave Delta county a population total of 31,037. Of this total Escanaba's population was 14,830; Gladstone 4,972; the rural area 14,235.

1943 Polk's directory estimates populations as follows: City of Escanaba 16,500; city of Gladstone 6,000.

The 1947 Michigan Department of Health estimates: Delta county total 31,772; Escanaba 13,792; Gladstone 4,614.

You will note the wide variation between the Polk and Health Department estimates, although Polk has not reported estimates on the total county population. The Health Department estimates the population of the cities

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Gladstone—Mr. and Mrs. Ten-nison Stade of Enderlin, N. D., are visiting at the L. W. Stade home, Dakota avenue.

Escanaba—The following Escanaba girls have joined the Michigan club at the College of St. Scholastica: Miss Betty Krause, daughter of Mrs. Anna Krause; Miss Corinne Larson, daughter of Mrs. Augustina Larson; Miss Marcella LeDuc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip LeDuc; and Miss Mary Lou Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sullivan.

Twenty Years Ago
Gladstone—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Heslip and daughter, Betty Joy, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Burroughs and son, Jack, returned Sunday night from Peshtigo, Wis., where they spent the weekend with relatives.

Escanaba—Prof. Joseph H. Drake of Ann Arbor, Mrs. W. K. Whitehead of Baltimore, Md., Joseph Drake, jr., of Chicago, Charles M. Drake of Birmingham, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Adams of Detroit were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Judson over the weekend.

Escanaba—Mrs. Claus Stenstrom, daughter, Eldora, and son, Herman, of this city and Ruth Dewar of Schaffer have left for a visit in Rochester, Minn.

and the county as a whole as below the 1940 federal census. Polk directory people, making a house-to-house canvass of the cities, might be expected to come closer to the actual population count.

The year 1950 and the U. S. census report will end speculation on a subject that has grown very confusing.

THE COMIC BOOKS—Larry Randall of Norway, publisher of the Norway Current and district governor of Rotary International, recently spoke to the Escanaba Rotary club. Some of his remarks concerned the addiction of American youth to the so-called comic books and to "cheap" movies. Both are a bad influence on young people, he believes.

The current epidemic of public indignation against comic books is sweeping across the country like wildfire. According to the Public Administration Clearing House, which keeps track of what city officials are doing from coast to coast, 50 cities are now curbing comic book sales.

The whole thing started in—of all places—Los Angeles. Perhaps the sale of comic books was cutting into the business of the Hollywood studios specializing in horror movies.

LURID STUFF—Too many comic books are devoted to the exposition of crime and sex. While it is true that comic books always portray the criminals as getting it in the end, the overdeveloped females are invariably shown in situations proving that while crime does not pay, sex appeal does.

From the visual education angle, youngsters are impressed with the excitement of outlaws, torture, murders collectively and individually, dabbling in the occult, sadism, war, and sex. These ingredients are combined into violent mixtures avidly consumed by millions of American youngsters.

The comic book clean-up campaign has placed the comic book publishers in a predicament. They could easily solve their problem, however, by making their comic books really comic.

New York, (P)—Ever go to a multi-million dollar diamond show?

Well, throw on some lipstick and wrap up in your 1927 furs, and let's go going. But leave off your sparklers. They'll look awful dim at this bonfire.

Here we are at the Ritz-Carlton. The Crystal Garden? Downstairs to your right.

Who's that rough character at the door giving us the evil eye? That's one of the 16 guards here to see that only the right people get in, and nobody grabs any rock candy and runs off with it to a pawnshop.

Sit here. Who're the other people? Why, they're the people throwing the party. It's the first nation-wide diamond show for the fashion press. Yeh, 11 jewelers from coast-to-coast raked together $3,500,000 worth of ice cubes for this little get-together.

Have a highball. Have two. Don't worry—they're on the house. And look at the menu—fruit salad in half a sliced fresh pineapple, chicken breast on ham, potatoes, green beans, coffee, ice cream and French cookies.

What's that? Quit giggling. You say it would look funny if all the jewelers took out their little black-rimmed magnifying glasses at once and wore them like monocles. Don't think they don't have them in their pockets. They do. But they don't call them magnifying glasses. They call them loupes.

There go the spotlights. The show's on—the band's playing. Here come the models now, one at a time, parading down the staircase.

Look, quit saying "oooh-h-h" so loud. Didn't you ever see a diamond before? Not any as big as potatoes, you say? Well, calm down, the guards are watching you.

After they parade around, you know, the girls come and sit for a while at each table. Here's one coming our way now. What's your name, Miss, and how much rock candy you wearing?

"I'm Dr. Avedon. This is a half million dollar necklace, and the bracelet is about $100,000. How does it make you feel to wear them? Oh, it makes you feel beautiful—like a great lady. But when I get through here I still have to go home and give my baby a bath. Sure I have a baby—a girl, 2½."

How much do the models get? Oh, about a hundred bucks altogether—$15 to eat an hour. Here's a guard. Let's ask him if any diamonds are ever stolen.

"None, Bud. We never lost a cent at any diamond show."

What's that? How can he explain when 1,000 cops at an International Convention of Police Chiefs here last week had 24 badges stolen from their crime convention exhibit. All right, I'll ask him.

"I don't know about that, Bud, but they wouldn't have lost any badges if they'd been diamond-studded."

The people of the United States had better do some tall thinking. Too many people are talking Nobody has a right to think of anything but of our own country's interests first.—Bernard M. Baruch.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—Secretary of Defense James Forrestal had no comment for the press after he was ordered by the president to revitalize U. S. military reserves.

"The executive order relating to reserve components has not been received," Forrestal told reporters bluntly on Oct. 16. He wouldn't be able to comment, he apologized, until he had a chance to study it.

The real truth is, Forrestal not only had studied the directive thoroughly in advance but had done his best to stop Truman from issuing it.

The order was first sent over to Forrestal's office on October 9. Although the next day was Sunday, Forrestal marched over to the White House in a sweat. For reinforcement, he brought along Army Chief of Staff Omar Bradley.

They tried to talk the president out of issuing the order, but all Truman would promise was to hold it up until the following Thursday to give them a chance to make suggestions. Late Thursday night Forrestal came up with a barrage of recommendations that would have blasted the heart out of the order.

Except for a few minor points, these were rejected. The most important concessions Truman made was to cite Forrestal's pet service, the Navy, for its excellent reserve program.

The president was out of town campaigning when the release was finally made by presidential assistant Dr. John Steelman. Yet even as late as the evening before publication, Forrestal was in Steelman's office still trying to block the directive.

Old lobbyists, like chickens, always come home to roost.

OLD LOBBYING TRICKS

One of the oldest lobbyists, who has tried his hand at all sorts of little games, is Robert E. Smith, who once held forth in a swank mansion in Rock Creek Park where congressmen drank champagne and listened to sweet words whispered by the big utilities.

Smith was then lobbying against the holding company act. When his lob-nest was exposed, he slipped quietly out of the limelight; only to come back later with another high-sounding name—"The National Conference of Investors," supposedly to protect the stockholders of the New Haven railroad.

However, U. S. Judge Carroll Hincks of Connecticut soon punctured that. After exposing the way Smith had put his daughter on the payroll, made his son-in-law office manager, and paid a salary to himself, Judge Hincks stated:

When this lobbying venture blew up, Smith conceived another high-sounding title—"The Life Insurance Policy-Holders Protective Association." Under this letter-head Smith has scared enough insurance holders out of money to pay around $50,000 in expenses.

MR. SMITH GOES TO TENNESSEE

Latest Smith operation has been to jump into the Tennessee senatorial campaign with a letter to insurance policy holders asking them to vote for G. O. P. candidate Carroll Reece. The letter begins by inviting the policy holder to "serve as a member of our national advisory board." Since the mimeographed letter is sent to thousands of people the advisory board must be a gigantic one.

Continues lobbyist Smith: "We wish to call to your attention a matter which is of vital concern to every policy holder in the nation. This is the election of Mr. Carroll Reece as U. S. senator from Tennessee."

"Carroll Reece," claims lobbyist Smith, "was quick to realize how fatal this 'New Deal' plan would be to those whose future is dependent upon their insurance."

The joke is that Reece, when a member of Congress served on the New Deal's temporary national economy committee, which conducted the most critical investigation of the insurance companies since the days when Charles Evans Hughes probed them in New York. The life insurance companies were cross-examined from stem-to-stern, with Carroll Reece not only participating but helping to appropriate more congressional money for the investigation.

Despite this, lobbyist Smith concludes his letter: "I shall appreciate a line as to your views on the probability of Mr. Reece's election. We are of course deeply concerned."

Note—The senatorial race between Reece and Estes Kefauver is one of the most interesting in the nation. Young Kefauver dared attempt what everyone predicted was impossible—successfully buck the Crump machine.

FOREIGN MINISTER SNUBBED

The Spanish diplomatic representatives throughout Latin America worked diligently on their assigned task of trying to get additional invitations for Alberto Martin Artajo, Franco's foreign minister—without much success. Artajo came to Buenos Aires as a guest of the Peron government and his boss in Madrid was anxious to have him visit over Latin countries.

The going proved tough, however. Only Peru and the Dominican Republic came through with official bids, and the Peruvian invitation aroused vigorous criticism in that country. Artajo was cool toward the idea of trundling all the way to the Caribbean just to get wine, dine and hugged by Dominican Dictator Trujillo.

Invitations from Chile, Columbia and Bolivia were considered possible a few weeks ago, but the recently announced accord between Spanish Monarchist and Republican groups in exile caused these governments to back down.

So Franco's chore boy had to content himself with the somewhat patronizing hospitality of President Peron who now figures that Spain is just a rather wobbly tail to the Argentine kite.

Red Cross Elects New Board Members; Mrs. Luecke Resigns

The Delta County chapter of American Red Cross, at its annual meeting, elected new members to serve on the 30-man board of directors; fixed a budget for the coming fiscal year at $10,000 and accepted the resignation of Mrs. John Luecke as chairman of the Junior Red Cross.

Wallace Cameron, F. J. Earle, John Landon, Mrs. R. W. Hadcock, Claude Hawkins, C. R. Wickman, Thaxter Shaw, Loren Jenkins, Mrs. J. H. Nivers and O. J. Thorsen were elected for three year terms on the board of directors.

J. M. Olson, Frank Tebo and A. M. Gilbert were released from the board, having completed their term of office.

William Warrington was appointed chairman of the nominating committee and will be assisted by L. J. Jacobs and George Brown.

Miss Irene Puhlman, general field representative of the Red Cross, explained changes in Red Cross policies to members of the board and visitors at the meeting.

The Red Cross will hold its annual fund drive in March. The operating expenses for the fiscal year, July 1, 1947 to June 30, 1948, were $8,264.65. The increase in the budget for fiscal year July 1, 1949 to June 30, 1950, is due to selective service, which necessitates telegrams for furlough certifications for servicemen and financial assistance to servicemen and their dependents.

Robert W. Klimetz Takes Navy Flight Work In Pensacola

Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., Oct. 22—Midshipman Robert W. Klimetz, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Klimetz, 1011 Sheridan Road, Escanaba, qualified in carrier landings today when he completed six consecutive landings aboard the navy flat-top USS Wright.

This event highlighted over 40 weeks of intensified training at the Navy School of Pre-Flight and Air Basic training at the "Annapolis of the Air", Pensacola, Fla.

Robert is a graduate of Escanaba high school and a member of the track team before entering the navy in 1945.

He was enrolled at Bucknell and Cornell universities for two years acquiring the academic requisites of a naval officer, the vital groundwork for actual flight training.

Midshipman Klimetz will now enter the final 16-week period of Naval air advanced training for qualification in a specific model combat or patrol plane.

Completing this phase of training he will be awarded the highly coveted wings and designation of a naval aviator for his first duty in a fast carrier task force in the fleet of the United States Navy.

SUNDAY BEER SALES

Dear Editor: Your editorial of last evening "No Vote on Sunday Sales" shows a lack of the facts in the case. Opinions on how temperance can be best carried out may differ; but whatever our opinion it is must check with facts.

You write, "The difficulties encountered by the proponents of a ban on Sunday sales of beer and wine in Escanaba may be taken as an indication that the people of this city are reluctant to take a step towards the evils of a prohibition era."

The fact is that it would not have been difficult to get the required number of signers but the ladies getting the names were given a "bum steer" and finally thought "What is the use." After we get the names many will be thrown out! (As they were in Gladstone). First they required 1300 signatures, and finally almost 1700 signatures. They were within close range of their goal when they were told the signatures must be the same as they were registered; i.e. Mrs. John Doe should sign Mrs. Mary Doe or as she was registered. The Press a few nights ago made comment about this fact. Yet, most people do not even remember just exactly how they signed their name when they registered.

Does it appear strange that when these objections were brought up at the last minute those getting signatures gave up? Why was not all this information given at the start, when these good ladies asked for it? It seems the liquor interests have made it so that in this case one-third of those who voted for the Secretary of State in the last election are required, for referendum vote, an unusually high requirement for a referendum. The fact that a few ladies were able to get so many signatures (compare small school election votes) without much help indicates that there is a deep concern about the growing liquor problem. It is easy to talk about the evils of the "prohibition era" and forget about the increased drinking of the present.

The Press concludes its editorial with these words, "The only sound approach to the beer and liquor problem is a program of temperance education, not prohibition." Why is not the closing of taverns on Sunday temperance education? Is it temperance education to make beer and wine available at every turn and every day? Is it temperance education to encourage fathers and mothers to spend every night of the week away from home?—Without any comment I would like to voice my protest to the Press policy of accepting liquor ads, a policy of rather recent standing. Enough said!

It seems some people are afraid of "an accurate portrayal of public opinion on this question." The ladies will not forget this and next time they will take the whole county. They have learned about last minute stalling! Rev. Gustav Lund.

Pearson's Column Read Avidly In Washington

By LAWRENCE LADER

(Reprinted from Pageant Magazine)

When a group of correspondents in the Nation's Capital were asked to name "the Washington correspondent who exerts through his writings the greatest influence on the nation," a few years back, Drew Pearson received over twice as many votes as those cast for the nearest runner-up.

Pearson's "Merry-Go-Round" is required reading among officials from the highest department heads to the newest clerks. This extreme urgency is due to the frequent presence of what is known as a "leak." Since the printing of such a piece of highly important news causes violent repercussions, the general tone of the "Merry-Go-Round" often reads like Cecil B. De Mille's latest epic.

25 Million Readers
Pearson's network of leaks today is so comprehensive that instead of looking for news, most of it comes to him. If three top executives are closeted with the president, it is a safe bet that within an hour after the meeting breaks up, a full report of it will leak to Pearson. Late in 1945, for instance, Pearson received a phone call, announcing that the peace treaty with Japan would be signed aboard the battleship "Missouri." The caller made elaborate attempts to disguise his voice, but Pearson recognized it as a Cabinet member's.

"The Washington Merry-Go-Round" is read regularly by 25 million readers. Its aura of patriotism is so heroic that the reader may be led to believe that its importance to the national welfare is on a par with Valley Forge. As a purveyor of Capital gossip, and explosive newsbeats, Pearson dates back to 1932 when the "Merry-Go-Round" was established. Pearson, the crusader, is a newer creation.

The war really brought Pearson into his own as a crusader. The Army "brass" are particularly fallible, and Pearson's attacks on their inefficiency, climaxed by the confusion in discharging GI's at the end of the war, made him into almost as great a hero as Eisenhower. In one day alone, he received 30 thousand letters from soldiers in the Philippines.

Associates of Pearson, who is ordinarily a mild man, say that he becomes ferociously determined once he decides to carry out a project. After conceiving the idea for the Friendship Train, he tried to find some official Government agency to take it over. Failing in this he decided to organize it himself. In 20 days Pearson had collected the staggering figure of $21,000,000 worth of food.

Pearson's seven columns and one radio broadcast dominate his week so completely that even when he and his wife are out to dinner, he hops from person to person to pick up items for "The Merry-Go-Round." His day usually starts at six in the morning. Many items for the day's column are on his desk and perused before breakfast. Pearson employs four men assistants and four women secretaries, but always writes the final column himself.

Disarmingly Mild
From nine to twelve each morning, Pearson attends to business details before going downtown to lunch. He generally dines at the Mayflower, where diplomats and politicians, bursting with possible stories, are hidden behind every napkin. During the afternoon he makes the rounds of Government offices. Many important doors, such as Senator Pepper's and Senator Kilgore's are always open to him. Equally important doors, such as Secretary of Defense Forrestal's, are just as tightly closed. At 4 p. m. the column is finished and ready to be put on the teletype machine to The Bell Syndicate, Inc., in New York. Even after the column has been dispatched he often telephones the Syndicate to make some last minute changes.

It is natural to expect that such a highly paid controversialist might stalk through Washington like an avenging angel. Yet detached from his role as commentator and columnist, Pearson is disarmingly mild. For a man whose radio income is $5,000 a week and the income from his column at least $1,500 a week more, the impact of Quaker simplicity is marked. In the city, Pearson dresses conservatively; in the country, in the oldest and most comfortable clothes he can find. Working at home in a pair of threadbare pants, his lank body eased into an armchair, Pearson hardly looks like the frightening gadfly whose rantings have chastened half the crowned head in Washington. Even the car he drives is a well-worn, 1941 Buick.

Army's New Look Is Explained By Local Recruiters

A "new look" has been added to Army Enlisted Men's grade titles and insignia of grade. Escanaba recruiters point out. New titles and new stripes are the order of day. No longer will men enlisting or inducted into the Army be known as privates—they are all called recruits now. This is just one of the many changes. Master sergeant and first sergeant will both continue to carry the same titles. The new changes are more apparent from there on, though. Former technical sergeants become sergeants, first class. The old grade of staff sergeant will, in the future, have the title of sergeant. Former sergeants become corporals, and corporals become privates, first class. Men who used to be designated as privates, first class are now privates. Men formerly referred to as privates become recruits.

The chevrons are smaller, only two inches in width. There will be two types of chevrons, or insignia of grade. One, to distinguish combat personnel, will be of gold color background with dark blue color stripes and arcs. The other, to signify noncombatant personnel will be just the opposite; dark blue background with gold color stripes and arcs. To further distinguish those enlisted personnel who must exercise combat command as combat leaders, a "combat commanders insignia" is authorized for wear by men of the first four grades. This insignia will be a green cloth tab, 1 and 5/8 inches wide, worn in the middle of both shoulder straps.

Members of the Army recruiting service in the Michigan recruiting district are donning the

Republicans Donate To Democratic Fund At Benton Harbor

Benton Harbor, Michigan (AP)—Berrien county Democrats have found a new way of raising funds for their campaign war chest.

They're soliciting the Republicans. Two Democrats said that fully half of their collections this fall in behalf of the local Democratic candidates has come from well known Republicans.

The two party workers are Ben Rosenberg, Democratic candidate for the state legislature from the second Berrien district, and young Homer Pavlides, Democratic county committeeman.

With only three Democratic candidates running this year out of a possible 12 county contests, the party's political fortunes have slipped to their lowest ebb since the F. D. R. landslide swept normally Republican Berrien county in 1932.

"We just ask the Republicans if they want to see the two-party system disappear, and they kick in," Rosenberg, explaining his unusual campaign method.

Potter Defends Record Of 80th Congress, Raps Truman Administration

Speaking with utter candor and sincerity to an enthusiastic overflow audience of Republicans at a dinner meeting last evening at the Sherman Hotel, Congressman Charles Potter of Cheboygan proudly defended the record of the 80th Congress and declared that in damning and denouncing the 80th Congress as a "do nothing" congress, the president of the United States is, in effect, denouncing the intelligence of the American people.

Rep. Potter emphasized that the constitution of the United States establishes the Congress as the legislative branch of government whose purpose it is to enact the laws desired by the people. The function of the executive branch, Potter said, is to administer the laws.

The president is denouncing the record of the 80th Congress, the speaker said, because the legislative branch of government refused to accept and rubber stamp legislative drafted by the administration.

Actually the 80th congress, which the president has branded as a "do nothing congress", enacted 900 bills and examined 19,000 measures that were introduced. Rep. Potter declared, adding that the congress was among the busiest in the nation's history.

Supply and Demand

The speaker reviewed the high cost of living issue in the present political campaign. He pointed out that inflation has developed primarily because of the economic law of insufficient supply and heavy demand of consumer goods.

"The major cause of high prices is the impact of the war," Rep. Potter said, "but the Democratic administration has not used the power that it possesses to help stem the tide. Heavy exports are certainly one cause of our inflationary troubles and the executive has complete power to control exports. The foreign aid program constitutes only 16 per cent of our exports."

The speaker also blamed the high cost of government as another factor in the inflation trend, declaring that the federal cost of government has increased 22 times since 1939.

"Excess taxation is still another factor in high prices because it hampers production by defeating initiative," Rep. Potter said. He estimated that 25 percent of the cost of every item is spent in the form of taxes.

Speaking as a war veteran, Congressman Potter said that the first desire of the veterans is good, clean, honest government. Secondly, the veteran wants sound, constructive veterans legislation, Potter reported.

The congressman emphasized that he will not go along blindly in support of veterans legislation merely because such measures are sponsored by the veterans organizations which, Potter said, constitute one of the strongest lobbies on Capitol Hill.

The determining factor in each case, Rep. Potter said, is the welfare of the public as a whole.

"The United States has developed into the strongest country in the world today under a process of representative government," the speaker pointed out, "and I believe the American people want to retain our type of government. The trend toward stateism, bureaucracy and regimentation by the opposition party is unhealthy to our democracy and we must stop it now."

Rep. Potter declared that it is his objective to serve all of the people in the district, regardless of political affiliation or social status.

He urged support for all of the Republican candidates for county and state offices, as well as for the Republican presidential ticket and for Republican candidates for other federal offices.

At the conclusion of his address, Rep. Potter responded frankly to questions submitted to him from the audience. He said that he was for continued federal aid to friendly nations.

Harland Yelland, local attorney, was toastmaster of the meeting.

CRACKPOT PROF. IS HAPPY NOW

Lives With Snakes And Spiders In Florida

By ROBERT C. RUARK
Miami, Oct. 20—It is not every day you get to see a former Yale professor happily engaged in running a combination juke joint, filling station, curio shop and zoo. And it is even rarer to see said professor blithely rattling a 10-foot boa constrictor.

This professor is named Marshall Baldwin Bishop. For 15 years he toiled behind an ivy-twined desk at New Haven, where he was assistant professor of zoology. Then one day in 1942 his collar got too tight, the students lost charm, and his desk seemed to grow bigger and bleaker.

For you see, Professor Bishop is a crackpot. He says so himself. "I am a crackpot," says Professor Bishop, a husky blond gent of some 39 years. "But I am a happy crackpot. I hate neckties. I like to go barefooted. I don't like problems. I like this," and he waved his arms.

Sells Snakes and Spiders
"This" is a roadside tavern, souvenir factory and zoo. The tavern is equipped with gas pumps, juke boxes, peanut-butter crackers, beer, pickled snakes in jars and bottles, turtles, live owls, belts, wallets and gadgets all of snakehide. There are a few spiders, too, some alligators, a hawk or so, a seething pit-full of assorted squirmers, and a big boa constrictor. They all belong to the professor.

Mrs. William Miller was called to Milwaukee by the serious illness of her brother, William Kruska.

The backslid pedagogue draws his livelihood from snakes and scorpions and such. He supplies universities and zoos and little private organizations like Rockefeller Institute with specimens. He buys all kinds of snakes for their hides, and his factory department turns them into belts and such. He milks snakes of their venom as calmly as a milkmaid turns the faucet on a cow. He catches a great many of his own reptiles.

Bishop would just as lief leap into an Everglades ditch to snare a water moccasin with his ungloved hands as take a little drink. He is contemptuous of snakes. He says the snakes know it, and respect him.

To see him stride, barefooted and barelegged, into a den of whirling rattlesnakes is a hair-whitening experience. I watched him chivy an evil-tempered, six-foot rattler into a corner, thwart at least three strikes with a snake-hook, and then stroke the critter on the head.

This was no prop snake either. Bishop milked him later, and drained one ounce of venom from the fangs. He did it with bare hands, holding its head over a glass and pressing the poison sacs. Personally, I would rather write for a living.

Before he quit the hallowed halls of Yale, Bishop was a scientist of some note. It is he who first proved that the polio virus was transmitted by flies as well as by humans. He has spiders named after him. He is an authority on rare blind fish. Various scientific expeditions carried him all over the world.

Bishop's home, well out of Miami on the Tamiami Trail, sometimes becomes a trifle infested. During periods of unseasonable cold, or an occasional hurricane, he has been known to move the whole menagerie into his living quarters for warmth.

This could stir up considerable strife with an unreasonable wife, but not Mrs. Bishop. A fashion illustrator, she is on record as being equally adjusted to scorpions and pet otters. A spider in the orange juice is not, in this case, comparable to a fly in the ointment although a coral snake sleeping snugly in a lady's bedroom slipper might spur certain spouses to drastic action with crude household implements.

The truant professor said he does not miss the soporific life among the students, and that six years of rattling alligators, being occasionally chewed by rattlers and nipped by scorpions has been immensely relaxing. Other men trudge drearily to classrooms, now he goes to the 'Glades for copperheads or to Brazil for boa constrictors. "But then," he says, "I am a crackpot. A happy crackpot."

Fatalities Reduced In Whooping Cough

Lansing, (AP)—An "astounding drop" in whooping cough, one of the major killers of Michigan infants, was reported by the State Health Department.

Dr. F. S. Leeder, director of the communicable disease bureau, said 2,379 cases have been reported so far this year compared with 8,713 in the same period last year.

This year's total is a record low, Dr. Leeder said.

In addition, only seven children have died of the disease at the half-year mark—the last date for which figures are available—compared with an average of 50 at that period in past years.

"We have no explanation for a reduction of this magnitude," Dr. Leeder said, "but we know it is also being experienced in neighboring states. Part of the credit can be given to an increase in our state-wide immunization program, and part to the use of triple-vaccinations which make less bother for mothers, but there still is a lot to be explained about it."

POTATO PARTNERSHIP—Frank Falkies, 24, (left) receives congratulations of his father, Fulgenz, (right) for winning the title of 1948 potato champion. The two have worked in partnership for many years.

'Potato King' Title Is Falkies Family Affair; Rewards Years Of Work

When young Frank Falkies of Baldwin township was hailed last year as the Michigan "Potato King" he modestly declared that credit should go to the Delta county Potato Booster association.

Today he is again Delta county's potato champion and strong contender for the state title, having beaten his own production record. And if you asked him, he would probably tell you that much of the credit should go to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fulgenz Falkies, and to his wife, Martha, the daughter of Rene Verbrigghe, another leading potato grower of the county.

The story began when Mr. and Mrs. Fulgenz Falkies became tired of city life and moved to Baldwin township near Cornell from Chicago, where Fulgenz was employed as a carpenter.

Land Is Cleared
That was back in the days when the Upper Peninsula was widely advertised as Cloverland, and prospective settlers were told it was only necessary to "tickle the land with the plow to make it laugh with a golden harvest."

Fulgenz Falkies and his wife found that clearing must come first. Fortunately the land they had bought was rich clay loam where once had stood fine hardwood forests. Clearing was done by hand labor and with a team of horses. The Falkies' were pioneers on that tract of land east of Cornell across the Escanaba river.

Two years ago Mr. and Mrs. Falkies "retired", turning the operation of the farm over to Frank, now 24 years old. They live in a cottage of their own and work actively in making the farm successful. Frank and his wife and their son, John, about one and one-half years old, live in the main house.

The Potato Promise
The land was right for potatoes, Falkies found. Good yields of potatoes were the usual thing each year.

But no exceptional yields were reported until after Fulgenz entered the Potato Booster contest, inaugurated in 1940 for the first time in Delta county by a group of Escanaba business men interested in a program to improve potato yield and quality.

In 1944 Fulgenz broke into the "500 Bushel Club" for the first time with a yield of 548 bushels an acre. This yield is directly attributed by Falkies to the Potato Booster program that called for the planting of good seed and the following of recommended cultural practices.

Then in 1946 Fulgenz topped all other growers in the county with a yield of 618 bushels an acre. It was that year that Fulgenz turned the management of the farm over to his son and the high records attained by the father were a promise of the "potato king" title to come to Frank. The two had worked together for many years and they were to share in the acclaim that came with the potato championship in 1947 and 1948.

What It Requires
Last year Frank Falkies won the state potato growing championship with 794.9 bushels an acre. This year he boosted that record by more than 50 bushels an acre.

Yields like that do not just happen. They are the result of careful planning and hard work. The land on which this year's bumper crop was grown was seeded to oats and clover four years ago. The field remained planted to clover for two years. The clover was turned under at the end of the third year, and this year it was planted with certified seed.

Fourteen acres were planted to russet russets last spring on the Falkies farm. Periodic spraying, with particular attention to the control of blight and insects is important to the success of the crop. Falkies sprayed his potato crop a total of 13 times.

These good practices, combined with favorable growing conditions (there was only one period of slight drought early in the year) resulted in the largest yield of potatoes an acre ever to be produced in Michigan—perhaps in the nation aside from those on irrigated lands.

Seed Stock Planting
This year Falkies is growing an acre of foundation seed stock under supervision of Michigan State College extension service. This is being done to provide good clean potato seed for other certified growers in the future. It is the only foundation seed planting of russet russets in the county.

This fall he harvested about 600 bushels of seed and will plant almost all of it next spring, selling what is left over. From the 1949 crop will come an estimated 7,000 bushels of certified seed from this year's foundation stock.

The foundation seed were obtained from Michigan State College. The seed was selected, inspected, and culled down to the final foundation stock that is the basis for a healthy disease-free crop of high quality.

General Farming
The Falkies farm is not exclusively devoted to potato production. There is a herd of about 40 head of cattle, including 18 milking cows and a flock of chickens.

This year an additional 14 acres were cleared, bringing the GOOD READING — Miss Dena Babcock, county librarian, (right) hands three good books to Mrs. Thure Pearson, Wilson RFD 1, who is a steady patron of the Bookmobile. The Bookmobile is a one-ton truck fitted inside with shelves so that 700 to 800 books can be carried over the county to be borrowed by anyone who wishes. The "library on wheels" was put in service last spring. An automobile was used previously. The Spies library in Menominee furnished books to the rural residents from 1919 to 1945, when a separate county library was established.

Those attending are asked to have a half sheet of stiff foil Christmas paper, gold, silver, red, green or blue, scissors and paper and pencil.

total to about 75 acres. The clearing was done by bulldozer, a practice being followed generally on many farms in the county. Seven bulldozers were employed in land clearing in the county this past summer, with the cost averaging about $22 an acre.

Bulldozers ripping out stumps and brush and piling them in windrows is a far cry from the methods employed by the elder Falkies when he settled on the land in June, 1927. And the comfortable dwellings are far superior to the two-room cottage that housed the Falkies family for many years.

Today state-wide attention is again centered on the Falkies farm and Delta county for the phenomenal potato records established by Frank Falkies for the past two years. Frank will repeat his statement that it is the result of the Potato Booster program encouraging good cultural practices. And behind that is 21 years of hard work by the Falkies family.

YOUNGSTERS LIKE IT—The young folks in rural communities readily take advantage of the opportunity to obtain good books from the Bookmobile. In view, left to right, are Betty Flynn, Barbara Chermick, Julianne Erickson, and the county librarian, Miss Babcock. The librarian has extensive experience. She served as instructor at the Columbia university graduate school library nine years, was reference librarian at Madison several years, and has been employed in Menominee county three years. She drives the Bookmobile two trips a week, calling on 100 homes.

JACK O' LANTERN SALAD . . . Canned peaches do the trick.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

Nothing in the world seemed more fun to us, when we were very small, than to be allowed to dress up in costumes and masks and make the rounds of the neighbors on All Hallows Eve. Armed with large brown paper bags we voraciously gathered together whatever the night gave up—apples, of course, and lots of cookies!

But the house we liked best each year was the one that always had squares of tawny sweet Penuche ready for us—almost as golden as the pumpkin itself. Next to Penuche we loved peanuts—especially if they were showered at us (in their shells, of course) so that we had the glorious fun of scrambling after them and seeing who could pick up the most.

So if you are expecting young visitors this Halloween, and want to be the favorite on the block, do have some appropriate loot ready!

Church Council
Project Is Aid
To Teen-Agers

"Pack-A-Towel" is the special project for World Community Day to be observed by the Council of Church Women on Friday, Nov. 5 at the Central Methodist church. The towels will be sent to teen-agers (14 to 21) in displaced persons camps in Europe. The following directions tell how to put the plan into action:

1. Start with a pretty bath towel 22 inches wide. On one end of the towel begin to fold in the following articles (as many as you can afford): Soap, wash cloths, tooth brush, socks, stockings, neckties, scarfs, hankies, purses, new or good as new garments. (nothing that can be broken or spilled).
2. Include a friendly note with sender's name and address.
3. Flap end of towel over the bundle and secure with a dozen assorted safety pins.
4. Pin firmly to it a piece of cloth with large crayon letters B (boy) or G (girl) and the size.
5. Bring your bundle to the meeting on Nov. 5.

There will be an appropriate display of the towel bundles in a local store window with suggestions for wrapping.

Speaker for the afternoon will be Miss Helen Elaine Stenson, who will address the women on the subject "Peace Is My Responsibility." Mary and Nancy Witham will also be on the program with a vocal duet.

A dessert luncheon will be served at 2 o'clock followed by a short business meeting and the program. The offering received will be used to speed the towel bundles overseas, and furnish vitamins and medical supplies.

The Council of Church Women is now concluding its second year in Escanaba. It is composed of women members from the following seven Protestant churches: Central Methodist, First Methodist, St. Stephen's Episcopal, Covenant Evangelical, Bethany Lutheran, Salvation Army, and First Presbyterian.

Taylor Is Heckled, Speech Cut Off At Jacksonville, Fla.

Jacksonville, Florida (AP) — Senator Glen Taylor of Idaho, the Progressive Party's vice presidential candidate, was heckled and egged Wednesday night during a speech in downtown Hemming Park.

Taylor delayed the start of his speech when demonstrators shouted for him to "go home," and he cut it short when a loud-speaker company took its equipment away. Numerous interruptions marked the Democratic senator's address, which lasted almost an hour and a half.

One egg thrown in Taylor's direction struck a song leader and splattered into Taylor's hair. Another egg just missed the senator and broke against a picture of Taylor and Henry Wallace, the party's presidential aspirant, at the rear of the speakers platform. One rock was hurled.

Paralyzed Athlete Has Last Birthday

Chicago, Illinois (AP)—Paul Nelson, jr., who does not know that doctors have told his parents he is near death, will be 17 years old next Wednesday—probably his last birthday.

"I'd like to get cards—lots of cards from anybody," said the youth who has been completely paralyzed from the neck down for 14 months as the result of an automobile accident.

"And I'd like a canary bird—one that would be singing when I wake up."

The walls in Paul's room are lined with cards, messages and gifts from sympathizers all over the country. His father asked that persons sending cards not mention the impending death.

Paul recently was removed from a hospital to his home at 2748 Windsor street. A former athlete at Amundsen high school, he now weighs less than 100 pounds.

Silver Wedding Anniversary Is Observed Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rozich, highly esteemed residents of Manistique, observed the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage last Sunday.

The happy occasion also served as a family reunion, bringing together the couple's son Bob, who returned from Montana for the occasion, Mrs. Rozich's brother, Joseph Dragos, who recently returned from army duty in Europe; and a visit from Mr. Rozich's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Tomac and their two sons, George and Stanley of Sudbury, Ontario. Another son, Jack, now serving with the U. S. army in Germany, was unable to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Rozich were married twenty-five years ago at St. Francis de Sales Catholic church by the Rev. Fr. Speck. The only attendant at the anniversary celebration was the bridesmaid, Miss Rose Geschel.

A dinner, at which 100 guests were served and a reception later in the evening, were held at the VFW hall. All arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Nick Dragos and Mrs. Peter Dragos. The head table was presided over by the honored couple, Miss Geschel and their five children.

The hall was beautifully decorated with pink and silver streamers centered by a silver bell. On the tables were cut flowers and tall tapers in crystal and silver holders.

During the early evening a mock wedding comedy skit was performed by Lois and Shirley Rozich, Ann Gorsche, Peter Gorsche, Francis Lesica, Mrs. Nick Dragos and Mrs. Val Klimpf, much to the enjoyment of the guests. Songs were sung and later there was a dance with music furnished by Ginny Lindstrom.

Mr. and Mrs. Rozich received many beautiful gifts. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sudac, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Marvic, Mr. and Mrs. Mirko Skradski, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rogers, of Escanaba; Mr. and Mrs. Tony Pinar and daughter Mary Jo, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pinar, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stemas, Joseph Pinar and Rudy Barker, of Wells.

Congress authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to mint three-cent pieces during the war, but none was minted.

DOWN THE STRETCH

TAKING IT DOWN. Hiram Sheffer of Dewey's staff takes a transcript of the Governor's speech at Ashfork, Arizona.

LISTENING TO DEWEY. Under a bright Colorado sky, Lupton residents typify interest in campaign.

A BRITISH visitor once looked at the entourage of a Presidential candidate, speeding around the country, and remarked: "There's only one way to describe it. It's a circus." He might have been thinking of the railroad accommodations of the candidates. For the candidate, making his one-night stands across the continent, experiences the traveling problems of the trapeze artist and animal trainer in many ways.

On his first 9,500 mile western trip Truman had a 17-car special carrying his family, secretaries, counsel and physician, secret service agents and 13 other staff employees, and 50 newspaper and radio people. Dewey also had a 17-car special with about 135 reporters, photographers and staff members.

Some of the highlights of the "traveling circuses" of politics are pictured here.

OPEN AIR TALK. Standing on the steps of State Capital at Denver, President Truman delivers a speech to large crowd.

POLITICS. In Arizona, Gov. and Mrs. Dewey entertain Republican committee-woman Mrs. Margaret Rockwell, left, and gubernatorial candidate Bruce Brockett.

LISTENING TO TRUMAN. Crowd swarms around Special as the President talks from back of train at Waco, Tex.

STAFF WORKER. One of the busiest persons on the Dewey Special is Kathleen Grace, secretary to Paul Lockwood, who is operating a teletype machine.

MORE POLITICS. Iowa's Gov. Robert Blue and Carroll Switzer, Democratic candidate for governor, hop on at Des Moines and are made at home by the Trumans.

HANDSHAKING, and the smile that sticks are all part of the campaigner's ways to win votes. Here, President greets Mrs. Vadie Folkerson, 83, of Fort Worth, Tex.

LULL BETWEEN STORIES. At long tables in Dewey's working press car, news men pound out stories or discuss them and photographers check their equipment.

PRESS INTERVIEWS, like one above, were few. Both candidates were kept so busy working on their speeches they had little time to give the news men.

Headquarters, Far East Air Forces, Tokyo, Oct. 21—Sgt. Norton H. Secore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Secore, 116 Pearl street, Manistique, has been assigned to the Intelligence Section of Far East Air Forces Headquarters, Tokyo.

Sgt. Secore arrived overseas in mid-September following an adventurous voyage from the west coast. He sailed aboard the army transport General Weigel, which responded to an SOS from the Philippine islanders living on tiny Camiguin Island when a volcanic eruption threatened with fiery death everyone ashore. The General Weigel spent three days evacuating some 1700 islanders from Camiguin, all of whom were disembarked safely at another Philippine Island, before continuing on to Japan.

This is Sgt. Secore's second trip to Japan, as he was here following the surrender, having come up from the Southwest Pacific battlefields of New Guinea and the Philippines, where he won the Asiatic and Pacific Battle Star, the Battle Star for the Philippine Campaign and the Good Conduct Ribbon. In 1945 he was stationed outside of Tokyo at the Tachikawa Air Force Base, which is still used for incoming and outgoing airplanes, although never landing stripes have since been constructed. He received his present promotion to sergeant at that time.

The sergeant is a 1929 graduate from the Godwin Heights high school at Grand Rapids. He was active in scholastic basketball, football, track and baseball in Michigan.

His two sisters, Vivian Bradley and Lillian Linderoth, both live with his parents at 116 Pearl street, Manistique.

FEAR HUNTER MAY BE DEAD

Relative Of Local Man Missing Five Days

Hale Currier, 53, of Capac, Mich., who has been missing for five days in the woods north of Newberry, is a brother-in-law of Ross P. Davis, Lake Shore Drive, city.

Inquiry at Newberry yesterday revealed that Currier, accompanied by his wife and several other hunting companions and their wives, had come from the lower peninsula to their camp near Chesbrough Lake, eight miles north of Newberry, to hunt upland birds and prepare camp for the deer hunting season.

About 11 o'clock Sunday morning he took a .22 caliber rifle and went for a stroll in the woods. That was the last seen of him despite search by Conservation officers, Michigan State Police and a large number of men who came to Newberry from Capac after it was learned Currier was missing.

The missing man was an experienced hunter and woodsman, and was familiar with the area in which he was hunting. This, coupled with the long absence, leads authorities to believe the man has met with misfortune.

Mr. Davis left this morning for Newberry to aid in the search.

Escanaba Eskymos Face Tough Opponent In Marinette Tilt

Gladstone Braves Determined To Beat Stephenson For 1st Victory

ESCANABA DAILY PRESS

SPORTS

"It Seems To Me"

BY JIM WARD

Hello, here it is Friday again. That's the day you find out how the Saturday games are going to come out.

Last week, we correctly called Escanaba over Iron Mountain, Ishpeming over Gladstone, Stambaugh over Newberry, Iron River over Houghton, Menominee over Ironwood, Munising over Newberry and Wakefield over Ontonagon, but Manistique, Crystal Falls and Negaunee surprised us. We figured Soo was ready to take Manistique, and Crystal Falls and Negaunee were surprise winners over St. Joe and Marquette, respectively.

This week's task presents at least three teasers—Marquette at Manistique, Stephenson at Gladstone and St. Joseph's at Munising. Frankly, we think St. Joe has a chance of upsetting unbeaten, and Gladstone might—just might, mind you—be able to present Coach Eldon Keil with that elusive 100th victory.

But, taking them as they come we give you—

Marquette at Manistique: We sampled some of Ponto's crew last week and found it not to our liking. Playing at home, the Emeralds will beat Marquette. The upsurging Redmen showed a leaky seam in dropping that Negaunee game last week.

Stambaugh at Ishpeming: Stambaugh won't have any trouble with the Hematites even in Ishpeming.

Iron Mountain at Iron River: Iron Mountain could bounce back from a humiliating loss to Escanaba, but the Mountaineers won't bounce far enough. Iron River to win.

Menominee at Soo: It's parents' night at the Soo. That's really making it tough on the folk. Menominee to win without working up any perspiration.

Marinette at Escanaba: This 1948 Eskymo team operates coolly and efficiently even under stress. Marinette is big, but we like the Eskymo poise and confidence. Remember what a going over those Iron Mountain and Kingsford backs got from the Eskymo forwards? We pick Escanaba.

St. Joseph's at Munising: The Trojans are ripe to stage an upset, but the Mustangs are just too tough this season. Munising.

Stephenson at Gladstone: We'd feel a lot better about this teaser if Ralph McGeary were in prime shape, but this is it, Cappy! Gladstone.

And, rounding out this week's top ten games in U. P. high school football, Norway over Kingsford, Negaunee over Calumet and Ontonagon over Lake Linden.

Football Spotlight On Wolverine-Gopher Tilt

By Gayle Talbot

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Led by the mighty Michigan Wolverines, who have given up only one disputed touchdown in four games, the nation's leading football powers are favored to smash past another milestone tomorrow without a backward glance.

Alone of the major undefeated teams, Army is considered to be in some danger in its engagement with Cornell's surprising eleven. The big Red has swept aside four opponents, including Harvard by a top-heavy score, and will be laying for the Cadets on its own field at Ithaca.

Otherwise, it looks like clear sailing for the big 'uns, Michigan, at full strength for the first time this year, figures on another slick exhibition against Minnesota, beaten by Northwestern two weeks ago.

Notre Dame, voted by the experts the country's second best team at this point in the annual scramble, expects stiff opposition from Iowa on the latter's home grounds. But nobody really expects to hear of Coach Leahy's lads losing a game nowadays.

Tarheels Not Worried
The third-place North Carolina Tarheels, juggernauts of the deep south, apparently have little to fear from the visiting Louisiana State eleven, already thoroughly trounced by Texas and Georgia. California's Golden Bears, scourge of the Coast and No. 4 on the national role, have a pop-over in the Washington Huskies, whom they play at Seattle.

That brings it down to Army, and the tussle at Ithaca might well supply the week's most significant result—either establish the Cadets securely among the real powerhouses or vault Cornell to a dizzy eminence it has not enjoyed for close to a decade.

The East's two other undefeated teams, Penn and Penn State, play host to Navy and Michigan State, respectively. Both are favored to stay on the victory trail after harrowing afternoons. Navy, plugging along through a brutal schedule, could pull an upset.

The Southern Methodist Mustangs rebounding strongly from their unexpected defeat by Missouri a fortnight ago, head the week's intersectional fare in a night game with Santa Clara at Dallas. Santa Clara has lost only one, to California, and so it promises to be quite a contest.

Badgers Meet Buckeyes
Northwestern plays host to Syracuse in another intersectional duel at Evanston, but that one should prove a comparative picnic for the Big Nine team after the 28-0 shellacking it took from Michigan last week.

The Wisconsin-Ohio State tussle at Columbus will come in for national interest because of the rash of publicity accorded Coach Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin during the present week. Unfortunately for Harry, whose student detractors would like to see him coaching elsewhere, the Buckeyes are not likely to offer any aid and comfort.

In other Mid-west games—Purdue plays at Illinois, Iowa State at Missouri, Nebraska at Kansas, Nevada at Tulsa, Kentucky at Marquette, Indiana at Pittsburgh and Temple at Oklahoma A. & M.

The Texas Longhorns and Baylor Bears, still undefeated in Southwest Conference play, are favored to score their second league victories, the Longhorns over Rice at Houston and the Bears over the Texas Aggies at Waco. Texas Christian plays Oklahoma in a non-conference game at Fort Worth Saturday night.

In the Far West, Southern California plays at Stanford, Washington State at Oregon, Oregon State at U. C. L. A., St. Mary's at Denver, Utah State at Brigham Young, and Wyoming at Utah.

Badger State Gridders Boast Big Line; Eskys Out To Avenge '47 Loss

"Marinette will be tough—no mistake about that. They have a big line, fast backs and a passing attack that clicks."

These were the words of Coach George Ruwitch, Eskymo mentor, as he pondered the battle at the Escanaba high school athletic field at 2 tomorrow afternoon between his Eskymos and the Marinette gridders. A preliminary game between the reserves of both schools will be played at 12:15.

"That Marinette passing attack worked to perfection last Saturday when Marinette defeated Antigo, 34-0," he said. "Yes, I'd say we were in for a very busy afternoon."

Consequently, the Eskymos have been drilling long and hard this week on pass defense. Continued stress on timing, passing and fundamentals has been made also.

They're Improved

Fully aware that Marinette has improved with each game this season, the Eskymos are intent on maintaining the high caliber of play that has marked their showings the last two weekends when they defeated Kingsford and Iron Mountain without being scored upon.

Coach Ruwitch intends to start the same crew which carried the brunt of the attack in the 33-0 conquest of Iron Mountain. They are Gary Abrahamson, left end; Warren Gustafson, left tackle; Jim Chapels, left guard; Dick Johnson, center; Dick Barron, right guard; Jim Erickson, right tackle; Pat Farrell, right end; Dick Pryal, quarterback; Don Carlson, left half; Herb Nicholson, right half, and Howard Perron, fullback. This combination has operated with great success this season.

With Billy Hamm out for the rest of the season with a fractured wrist, Dave Johnson has been moved from guard to right-half on the second-string backfield, and Gilbert Prevost has been moved to left half. Perron and Gustafson have continued to work out on plackicking.

They Can Do It

In last Saturday's game, it was a joy to the local football populace to see Perron boot three successive points after touchdown. Prior to that, the Eskymos had muffed 12 consecutive PATs.

One thing the Eskymos are concerned with is gaining revenge for that 27-7 loss to Marinette last season. They also are concerned with the fact that no Escanaba team has ever scored more than two touchdowns against Marinette. The Eskymos have beaten Marinette in years gone by but never have they scored more than two touchdowns.

All of which indicates the Wisconsin eleven traditionally is a strong defensive team, and the Ruwitch men would like very much to dent the record book to the extent of scoring more than two touchdowns.

A Big Job

The job is a big one, however, for Marinette's Maroons boast of a big line with plenty of fight. Fred Ffarek, tackle, is the only holdover from Marinette's undefeated 1947 eleven, but he has found plenty of big mates. Ned Sloan will be at the other tackle, and John Stang and Allan Blohm at the guards. Howie Lieburn at center is a top performer at backing up the line. Starting ends likely will be Jim Strem and Jack Plautz.

Coach Howard Stiehm, in all probability, will start Vernon Schahczenski, fast right half; John Walfred, his passing ace at left half; Dick Langlois at quarterback and Al Weisserber at fullback.

Walfred has been ill of late but is expected to start. Fred Schuette, regular quarterback, will be lost to the squad for the Escanaba encounter. He aggravated a knee injury of long standing in scrimmage Wednesday, and although he is expected to make the trip he is not slated to see action.

Reserves Unbeaten

Other backs available are Don Noel and Allan Eche, a pair of rugged freshmen who are being groomed for future starring roles. Feich is particularly strong on defense.

Stiehm, in his second year as Marinette coach, uses the single wing. He has lost only two games in 13 as Marinette mentor. The Marines this season lost to Iron Mountain, 14-13, in an early season. They tied Rhinelander, 7-7; defeated Eau Claire, 21-0; lost to a classy club from Whiting, Ind., 19-6, and last Saturday downed Antigo, 34-0.

In the preliminary, the Eskys reserves will be out to keep their record clear. They are unbeaten in two years.

Officials here Saturday will be Vance Hiney, Al Rudness and Matt Vanni, all of Negaunee.

Leafs Look Feeble, But Montreal Six Has Spark In NHL

By The Associated Press

The feeble showing of the Champion Toronto Maple Leafs and the surprising spark of the Montreal Canadiens are the dual feature of the young National Hockey League season.

The Canadiens leapt into undisputed first place in the standings last night with a decisive 5-0 victory over the Leafs at Montreal. Montreal now has two victories and a tie in three games.

It was the second straight setback for the team that walked off with the league crown and the Stanley Cup playoff last season and was figured a favorite to repeat.

The Maple Leafs in two games—with Boston and Montreal—now have scored only one goal against nine for the opposition. They seem to miss Syl Apps, their center and leader for years who has retired from competition.

The race has developed into a half-and-half affair. Detroit and Boston, with two victories each, share with Toronto the honor of not having lost a decision.

The second division threesome—New York, Toronto and Chicago—haven't won a game. New York has a loss and tie, Toronto two defeats and Chicago three setbacks.

Goalie Bill Durnan was the hero of Montreal's shutout triumph last night before a home crowd of 11,203. His stout play in front of the nets drew repeated applause.

Elmer Lach scored the first goal for Montreal in the opening period. In the second, the Canadiens' second line ran in three goals. Norm Dussault, Joe Varenvold and Billy Reay tallying. Glen Harmon scored the final goal in the last period, catching the Leafs flat-footed after a breakaway.

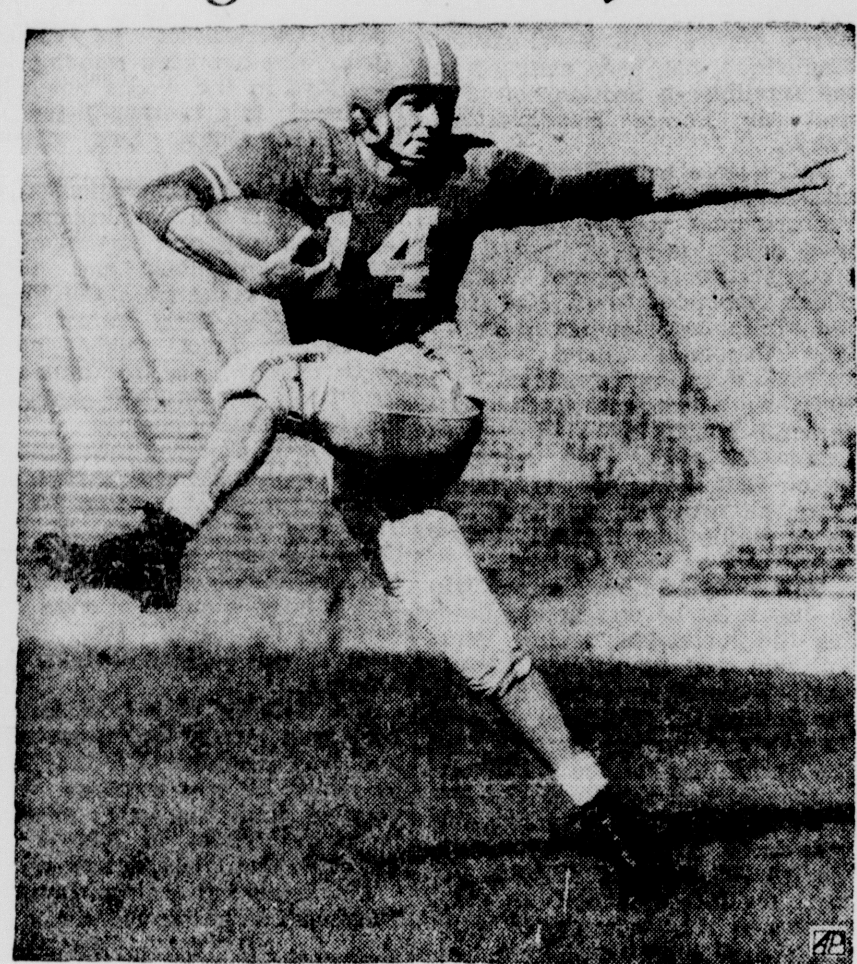

Standings:

	W	L	T	Pts.	GF	GA
Montreal	2	0	1	5	14	3
Detroit	2	0	0	4	10	1
Boston	2	0	0	4	12	4
New York	0	1	1	1	1	8
Toronto	0	2	0	0	1	9
Chicago	0	3	0	0	6	19

GIANT CENTER INJURED

New York, Oct. 22 (AP)—Len Younce, veteran guard and captain of the New York football Giants, is lost to the team for at least one game and perhaps more. Younce collapsed after making a tackle in practice yesterday and was taken to the hospital where attendants said he suffered concussion and a dislocated neck.

Light-Footed Lynn!

LIMBER LEGS—Michigan State, bidding for a spot in big time college football, put up a great fight before bowing to Michigan and Notre Dame, two 1947 undefeated teams. Next Saturday against Penn State, a third 1947 unbeaten eleven on its schedule, MSC finds itself in the role of favorite. One reason for this is the showing of Lynn Chandnois, lanky right half, pictured above, who leads all Spartans in offense with 249 yards gained. George Guerry, left half, is right on his heels with 249 yards. Although undefeated this season, Penn State is on the spot in its encounter with MSC. Its previous opponents have not been highly rated teams.

Trojans Going All Out In Munising Jug Battle

The St. Joseph's high school Trojans have two incentives to spur them on to greater efforts against Munising on the Mustang gridiron tomorrow afternoon—one is the desire to elevate their nose-diving football fortunes and the other is to capture that pesky Little Brown Jug from the Munising Mustangs.

Regardless of the fact that Munising is undefeated this season and has been scored on only once—by Newberry in that 19-6 melee last week—the Trojans are intent on staging an upset triumph. And they couldn't pick a more logical spot for it than the annual jug game with Munising.

Trojan fortunes have dropped ever since their magnificent 12-7 victory over the favored Marinette Lourdes. In that game, the Trojan passing and running attack—particularly its passing game with Gerald Harris tossing them—was clicking. The Lourdes were taken, but good.

Back In Stride
Since then, however, St. Joe was spanked rudely by Norway, 35-6, despite a fine last half stand that saw the Trojans on the offense most of the time, and they were nipped by Crystal Falls, 7-0,

Eagle Eleven Respected For Tie With Munising; Ralph McGeary Injured

Gladstone, Oct. 22—The Gladstone Braves clash with the Stephenson eleven here Saturday in the next to the last game of the 1948 season. The finale also will be played at Marble Athletic Field with Escanaba furnishing the opposition on the following week-end.

While the boys were disappointed over the outcome of the Ishpeming encounter, they have come back with plenty of fight this week and are determined to garner their first victory at the expense of the Menominee county eleven.

It will be no easy battle, though, for Stephenson held the Munising eleven to a 0-0 tie, thus marring the fine record hung up this season by the Alger county crew.

A revamped backfield will be seen in action this weekend. Examination reveals there are no broken bones in the injured ankle of Fullback Ralph McGeary but it is unlikely that he will see action this weekend or if he does that he will be in long.

tackle, and Jerry Londo, right end. Ted Baldwin, Ken Gunderman and Red Williams of Escanaba will handle the game.

Spartan Prestige At Stake, Too, In Penn State Battle

East Lansing, Oct. 22 (AP)—A big lump of Michigan State football prestige will be riding on the result of the football game with Penn State Saturday.

The Spartan squad left here last night with the players carrying the memory of the slogan they have stared at every day in the dressing room—"opportunity No. 3. Let's not regret it." For the feeling at the college is that MSC will have to knock off Penn State after bowing to Michigan and Notre Dame to prove that the former agricultural college has the right to play with the big boys of college football.

Dutch Proxy Bride Lands U.S. Husband

Immigration Red Tape Severed By Wedding

Glendale, Calif., Oct. 22 (AP)—The little Dutch proxy bride had her American man today.

And strands of immigration red tape were dimmed by honeymoon bliss.

The former Wilhelmina Johanna Nyenhuis, 24, and her new husband, Everett D. Masters, 41, hoped those strands were permanently cut by their church wedding here yesterday.

Wilhelmina wore the same satin and lace gown she had on at her proxy ceremony at the Hague last July 19.

They met two years ago when she was a Dutch airline employee in Amsterdam and Masters was delivering a plane there for Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

Later when he asked her to come to this country and be his bride it developed there would be a long wait under the immigration quota system. So they were married by proxy and she came to New York as soon as feasible, arriving Oct. 11.

Then the immigration department held her at Ellis Island, declining to recognize the proxy marriage, until under an appeal to Washington she was permitted to enter on parole.

She flew here a week ago and yesterday they were united by a Presbyterian minister, the Rev. George E. Hammond.

The ceremony went off smoothly after one slight delay. The nervous bridegroom had forgotten the license and had to hustle home after it.

Nude Bodies Found In Bathtub; Illicit Romance Revealed

Chicago, Oct. 22 (AP)—Police looked to a coroner's inquest today to shed light on an illicit romance that ended with the nude bodies of a man and woman submerged in an overflowing bathtub.

Preliminary investigation uncovered no motive for the suicide pact between Mrs. Jessie Beck, 31, Chicago, mother of two children, and George Reading, 40, Detroit precision machinery salesman.

Clasped in embrace, their bodies were discovered yesterday in the bathroom of a suite in the Croydon hotel at 616 Rush street, in the near north side night life district.

Anthony C. Prusinski, chief deputy coroner, said they apparently swallowed pills from several bottles found in the room, entered the tub and turned on the water. The tragedy was discovered after water seeping through a ceiling attracted hotel employees.

Detroit Man Turns Out Walking Robot

Detroit, Oct. 22 (AP)—A Detroit tool and die worker, Patrick S. Rizzo, today unveiled Robin the Robot, a mechanical man made over a period of eight years.

Rizzo values the mechanical man and the inventions contained in it at $100,000.

The Robot operates on electric current and remote control, Rizzo says he can make him dance or walk at will.

Rizzo claims Robin is the first robot able to walk without wires or cables trailing behind him. The dummy stands five feet tall, weighs 95 pounds and has 833 wires and switches in him.

Grand Jury Indicts 5 Detroit Dealers In GOP Slush Quiz

Detroit, Oct. 22 (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted five Detroit area auto agencies and four of their officials on charges of illegally contributing money to the Republican party.

The indictments charge unlawful fund donations to the 1948 campaign in Michigan as well as to the 1946 campaign.

Some of the 1948 contributions to the GOP, according to United States Attorney Thomas P. Thornton, were on the basis of $1 for each new car delivered during 1947.

Ex-Convict Jailed In $500,000 Jewel Thefts in New York

New York, Oct. 22 (AP)—A 38-year-old former convict was being held without bail today for an Oct. 28 hearing on charges of burglarizing the apartments of Gertrude Niesen, the singer, and screen actress Gene Tierney.

Assistant District Attorney Paul F. Reilly identified the man as George Feld and said he had admitted looting from 40 to 50 Manhattan apartments of articles estimated by Reilly to be worth $500,000.

Reilly said articles taken from the Niesen and Tierney apartments were insured for $100,000.

In Philadelphia, meanwhile, Miss Niesen last night recovered an estimated $11,000 worth of jewelry left in a taxicab after a trip here to examine some of the gems allegedly stolen from her New York apartment by Feld.

The jewelry was returned to Miss Niesen by Mrs. Sue S. Zienbicki, of Philadelphia, who said she got into the taxicab which the singer later found a handbag with Miss Niesen's identification in it.

Wallace Will Ask Governor For Spot On Illinois Ballot

Chicago, Oct. 22 (AP)—Blocked by a supreme court decision, Henry A. Wallace and his Progressive party today appealed directly to Republican Gov. Dwight H. Green to get the third party's state and national tickets on the Nov. 2 Illinois ballot.

But there appears to be no chance that the Progressives will be on the state ballot. The political effect seems to favor the Democrats.

Wallace himself, disappointed because Illinois is regarded as one of his strongest strategic states, asked Green in a telegram that he call a special legislative session or have the state certifying board order the Progressive tickets to be put on the statewide ballot.

Green made no public comment. Associates said he plans none and that it is now "a physical impossibility" to make ballot changes.

Casualties Total 200 In Walkout Of French Coal Miners

Paris, Oct. 22 (AP)—Total casualties of the violence-studded French coal strike approached 200 today as the crippling walkout of 335,000 miners went into its twentieth day.

There were no incidents reported today, however, as soup kitchens were rolled out in eastern France, signifying the Communist-led strikers were pulling in their belts.

Yesterday's bitter fighting in which scores of police and soldiers were injured brought a threat of martial law. Some cabinet ministers were said to feel Premier Henri Queuille should not only declare a state of siege in the coal fields, but should send more troops there and call up reserves.
